

Saxophone and Clarinet Lessons

Learn an instrument, your way

I am an experienced educator and performer based in Leeds. I regularly perform all over Europe with a variety of bands and ensembles (from pubs and clubs to Glastonbury), as well as writing and producing music for TV and film. I have knowledge and experience of a wide range of musical styles, from classical and jazz through to funk, soul and electronic music.

My lessons are informal but rigorous, balancing technique and progression with enjoyment - I firmly believe that students learn best when they are enjoying their lessons, so I try to be flexible with what we play where possible. With my jazz background, I am happy teaching improvisation, as well as guiding students through classical grades - equally, good progress can be made without taking exams if preferred. I firmly believe that everyone has the potential to be a musician, regardless of previous experience or background.
